We use cookies to ensure that we deliver the best user experience of our website. If you would like to, you can change your cookie settings at any time. Continue

Highlights of the collections

The Cadbury Research Library has created a selection of online highlights from the collections on Flickr. You don't need a Flickr account to have a look through our collections, but if you do, why not follow us? Cadbury Research Library on Flickr (http://www.flickr.com/people/cadburyresearchlibrary/) .

Art in the Collections

An exhibition showcasing the variety of hand-coloured art in the collections, including tinted printing processes and freehand miniature painting. View a selection of images from the Art in the Collections exhibition on Flickr (http://www.flickr.com/photos/cadburyresearchlibrary/sets/72157634342993802/) .

Roots of the University

The history of Mason Science College 1880-1900, founded by Sir Josiah Mason and the forerunner organization to the University of Birmingham. Roots of the University Exhibition on Flickr (http://www.flickr.com/photos/cadburyresearchlibrary/sets/72157634457316297/) .

Campus Construction

Over 600 photographs documenting the explosion in building on the campus during the 1950s and 1960s. View a selection of images from our Campus Construction Exhibition on Flickr (http://www.flickr.com/photos/cadburyresearchlibrary/sets/72157632911020521/) .

University Archives

The tour illustrates some of the material that can be found in the institutional archives of the University and its predecessor and associated organisations. View the University Archive highlights tour on Flickr (http://www.flickr.com/photos/cadburyresearchlibrary/sets/72157629860248284/) .

The Mingana Collection

The uniquely rich Mingana Collection was brought together during the 1920s by Iraqi priest Alphonse Mingana, who had settled in England. Designated as an outstanding collection of international importance, you can now view parts of the collection online (http://vmr.bham.ac.uk/Collections/Mingana/) .

© University of Birmingham 2014