Be recognised. Stand out.

The Liberal Arts and Sciences degree has been developed to ensure our graduates possess a wide-ranging knowledge of issues in different disciplines, in addition to in-depth expertise, so that they will become the next generation of leaders with global employers.

This four year programme includes an enhanced year abroad at one of Birmingham's leading partner institutes, giving you access to new cultures, methods of teaching and internship opportunities.

You will gain invaluable, real-life work experience as we provide you with a choice of different internship opportunities. Throughout your degree we will support you through a Leadership Development programme packed with extra-curricular academic and social activity.

You will also have a dedicated advisory team, with access to some of the top academics in the University, which can offer exceptional mentoring and guidance. This guidance will be tailored to your journey through the degree, offering careers support when you need it most and practical advice on what subjects and modules to choose through each stage of the Liberal Arts and Sciences degree.

Yogesh Dewan, CEO and Founding Partner, Hassium Asset Management LLP (formerly Executive Director, Goldman Sachs Int)

"Having worked in the international business world and hiring graduates from a variety of countries, backgrounds and degree types, I am struck by the breadth of skills and insights that the Liberal Arts and Sciences degree at Birmingham offers".
