LLM EU Competition Law

Module leader: Dr Julian Lonbay (/staff/profiles/law/lonbay-julian.aspx)

Module description:

This module explores antitrust law (the anticompetitive conduct of private undertakings). We will start with an introduction to the economics and goals of competition law and policy. After considering the procedural framework of public and private enforcement of EU competition rules, we will examine the structure of the relevant prohibitions. This examination will focus on two key provisions of EU law: Article 101 TFEU prohibits agreements that restrict competition while Article 102 TFEU outlaws an abuse of a dominant position. Building upon this general introduction, we will examine how these provisions are applied in specific contexts. These include cartels and the problem of oligopolistic markets, merger control and the relationship between intellectual property rights and competition law.
