Postgraduate supervision

Aleksandra Cavoski is happy to supervise postgraduate research students interested in Environmental and EU law, particularly:

- the enforcement of EU environmental law and how it differs from the challenges of enforcement at the international level;
- the intersection between law and science and law and language, especially in the field of environmental law.

Potential students are invited to contact Dr Cavoski via email (mailto:a.cavoski@bham.ac.uk) to discuss their research proposals prior to submitting official applications.

Research

Dr Cavoski's principal research interests are in the field of Environmental Law and EU law, including certain aspects of Public International Law. She is particularly interested in the comparative experiences in countries in Western Balkans as they undergo the accession process in environmental law and policy.
