

Employment and housing: getting the keys to recovery

Andy Bell, 23 November 2015

Recovery

- "Building a life for yourself on your own terms, with or without symptoms of mental illness"
- Key elements:
 - Hope for the future
 - Control over your life (and treatment)
 - Opportunity for a life outside of illness

Employment

- At least 1m people out of work due to mental ill health
- 7% people using mental health services are in employment
- More than half would like to work
- People in paid work have fewer hospital admissions

Individual Placement and Support

- 'Place then train' approach to employment
- 17 international trials show 50-60% work outcomes
- Postcode lottery in availability of IPS
- Centres of excellence' and 'regional trainer' approach to extending IPS
- Piloting in addiction services, prisons and primary care/IAPT

IPS principles

- No exclusions
- No compulsion
- Rapid, assertive job search based on preference
- Co-located with health support
- Benefits advice
- Time unlimited support in work

Economic case for IPS

- People in work make less use of health services (eg fewer hospital admissions)
- Cost savings estimated at £3,000 a year
- One-off cost per person £2,700

Current provision of IPS Ce

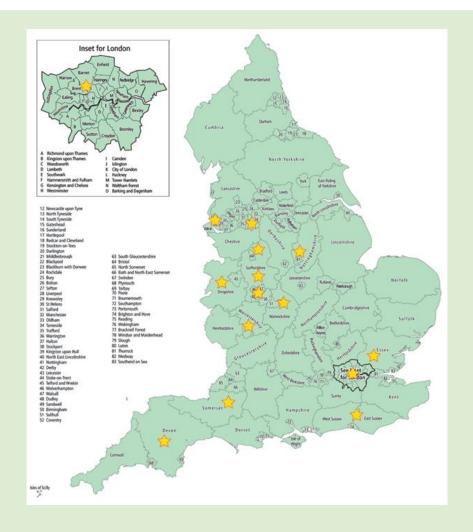

- Half of mental health service users want help with employment
- About half of them are receiving any (CQC annual survey)
- IPS currently offered by about half of NHS mental health trusts
- Estimated 10,000-20,000 places each year

Centres of Excellence

Centre for Mental Health

- Shropshire (Enable)
- Dudley & Walsall
- Coventry
- North Staffs
- Worcestershire

Housing and mental health

- Almost all people with common mental health problems live in mainstream housing
- 80% with severe mental illness also in mainstream housing (mostly in social housing)
- But 35% of people on CPA do not have settled accommodation

Supported housing

- Covers a wide range of housing types and forms of support, eg:
 - Crisis houses (to prevent admissions)
 - Support for homeless people (62% have a mental health condition)
 - Step-down housing (eg from secure care)
 - 'Floating support' in people's own homes

Evidence of what works

- Settled accommodation is an important part of recovery
- Supported housing is preferred to sheltered accommodation
- Preferences of service users (eg for autonomy) can be at odds with those of staff and carers (eg for staffing levels)

Homelessness

- 62% of homeless people have a mental health condition
- Homelessness 2.8 times more common among people with mental health problems
- Insecure housing and poverty have big impact on children's mental health
- Homelessness a major barrier to getting work, eg for people leaving prison

Welfare advice

- Multiple welfare rights issues affect people with severe mental illness
- Sheffield CAB service located within (and funded by) mental health trust:
 - Cost per client £260
 - Cost of hospital admission £330 per day
 - Cost of a relapse of psychosis £18,000
