

Are you great with disability?

Posted on Wednesday 12th March 2014

Do you have a disability or a long-term health condition? Great with Disability (<http://www.greatwithdisability.com>) provides you with all the information you need as you apply for graduate jobs and prepare to go through the recruitment process.

The site affords information which is specifically relevant to you on topics such as disclosing a disability, requesting adjustments, requiring support, gaps in the CV, lack of work experience, etc. Currently there is no other website offering all of this information. They also provide information about employers. In addition to marketing their opportunities, employers can also include specific information about disability and the support they offer which their own company website may not allow.
