

Birmingham. For life. Networking Workshop - 15 February 2011

On Tuesday 15 February, members of Birmingham. For life. held their second annual Networking Workshop at Birmingham Business School.

The workshop started with students participating in a networking skills session led by Lucy Williams from the Careers and Employability Centre. They learnt valuable tips and techniques, including the importance of preparation and presentation in both formal and informal networking scenarios.

Students then had the chance to practice their newly-learned skills on alumni during an informal drinks reception.

Photos from the event are below.

Birmingham. For life. is a new student society sponsored by the Development and Alumni Office and aims to connect students with alumni through events such as this. There are currently 59 members, who are all really enthusiastic to meet alumni and gain a valuable insight into life after Birmingham. To find out more about Birmingham.
