

Birmingham shaped us; we shape Birmingham

As a University we are extremely proud of our origins in the great city of Birmingham. We recognise the importance of our regional relationships on the growth and development of Birmingham and are delighted that a large number of our graduates remain local and make a significant economic and social regional impact.

Follow the links below to hear from a section of our influential alumni within the West Midlands, about how they feel their time at the University shaped them and what advice they would offer to students looking to study, live and then develop their careers within the city of Birmingham.
