Professor David Eastwood, Vice-Chancellor of the University of Birmingham.

Introduced in 2010, the Vice-Chancellor's Distinguished Lecture Series at the University of Birmingham brings people together from across the University, and wider community to focus on the most pressing issues of the day, both in Higher Education and in society more widely.

The first lecture of the 2013 academic year will be delivered by Professor David Eastwood, Vice-Chancellor at the University of Birmingham.
