An exhibition of anatomical art selected from the University's Special Collections by Professor Alice Roberts, Clinical Anatomist and Professor of Public Engagement in Science. Showing the ways in which artists and surgeons have depicted dissections of the human body from the time of Vesalius (1543) onwards.

Open weekdays 9am - 6pm.

The exhibition is accompanied by the lecture 'The Art of Anatomy' by Professor Alice Roberts, on Friday 21 March 1.10-1.50pm in Muirhead Lecture Theatre.

This lecture is free but please book: special-collections@bham.ac.uk

These events are part of the University's Life and Death themed Arts and Science Festival 2014.
