

'Screening European Heritage: History on Film', a funded collaboration with the Centre for World Cinemas, Leeds

Posted on Wednesday 30th January 2013

In an early indication of the successes to be achieved by close collaboration between B-Film and The Centre for World Cinemas at Leeds University, the AHRC has awarded £39,805 to the research centres under its Care for the Future Exploratory Awards 2012.

Led by Professor Paul Cooke, the project is entitled Screening European Heritage: History on Film, The Heritage Industry and Cultural Policy and involves researchers from both universities alongside many colleagues from international institutions and universities.

More information here: <http://arts.leeds.ac.uk/screeningeuropeanheritage/network/> (<http://arts.leeds.ac.uk/screeningeuropeanheritage/network/>)