Paul Long has written on media and cultural history including: Only in the Common People': The Aesthetics of Class in Post-War Britain (<http://www.c-s-p.org/flyers/Only-in-the-Common-People--The-Aesthetics-of-Class-in-Post-War-Britain1-84718-417-0.htm>). He is working with Screen West Midlands on projects funded by the Digital Film Archive Fund to preserve and promote screen and film archives. In particular, he has an ongoing interest in the life and work of the BBC documentarist Philip Donnellan.
