

Research Poster Conference winner

Posted on Tuesday 10th July 2012

The University of Birmingham Research Poster Conference took place on June 19th 2012 in the Great Hall of the Aston Webb Building. This year there were 166 posters on display illustrating the wide range of research that is taking place across the university. Each school was well represented with a winner and runner up being chosen for each school.

The winner for the College of Arts and Law was Janet Sullivan with her poster on 'Discovering a lost Black Country landscape: using GIS to discover the pre-industrial landscape of Oldbury' (/Documents/college-artslaw/history/cwmh/JSullivan-poster-2012.pdf).

Janet is a member of the Centre for West Midlands History and is studying for a PhD in the School of History Cultures on 'The material, economic and social development of Oldbury during the Industrial Revolution'.

See Janets research profile

See the poster: 'Discovering a lost Black Country landscape: using GIS to discover the pre-industrial landscape of Oldbury'.