

Aerial photographs

The study reach is ~10 km in length and our specially commissioned photographic archive spans 2000-2010, with photographs taken at least once per year during this period.

During the large flood in 2005 additional photographs of the study reach were also taken through the falling limb of the flood. We also have other imagery of the reach dating back to 1944.

