

News

- Autumn 2012 - the PI has been invited by the European Union Centre for Excellence at the University of Illinois, US to give a talk entitled 'Facing EU Policy Failures in the Middle East and North Africa: the New Arab Awakening' as part of the Centre's Lecture series on the theme 'Europe and the Mediterranean: Transnational Spaces and Integration'. In 2011 the University of Illinois was one of only two US Universities to receive the prestigious Jean Monnet grant, and the only domestic University in the US with the privilege of earning a European Module award. This lecture series, based on the above theme, will be organised by the Centre for the next three years as part of this Jean Monnet grant from the European Commission. The lecture series and broader grant project are designed to present Europe and the Mediterranean as interdependent, multicultural and multinational spaces connected in both the past and present by cultural, economic, and migratory networks.
- July 2012 - a Themed Issue of the journal Mediterranean Politics on the subject of the Arab Uprisings, co-guest edited by the PI and Francesco Cavatorta, has been published as Volume 17, Number 2.
