

Postgraduate study

The Institute for Textual Scholarship and Electronic Editing is also a teaching unit within the School of Philosophy, Theology and Religion.

Staff supervise a number of candidates for doctoral research (PhD). The University actively encourages research students from overseas, and there is a strong tradition of this in the Theology Department and ITSEE itself.

Two short videos made by PhD students, talking about their experiences studying with ITSEE are available

Adobe Flash Player or QuickTime is required for video playback. Get the latest Flash Player Get the latest version of QuickTime

Transcript \(/accessibility/transcripts/artsandlaw/ptr/edgar-ebojo.aspx\)

Adobe Flash Player or QuickTime is required for video playback. Get the latest Flash Player Get the latest version of QuickTime

Transcript \(/accessibility/transcripts/artsandlaw/ptr/michael-clarke.aspx\)

For more details of current research, please see the staff page \(/research/activity/itsee/staff/index.aspx\).

Members of the Institute also contribute to Masters and Undergraduate teaching, as well as the University's Foundation Academy.

Summer school

If you would be interested in an ITSEE summer school on Electronic Scholarly Editing, including courses on palaeography, language, transcription and publication, please e mail itsee@contacts.bham.ac.uk (<mailto:itsee@contacts.bham.ac.uk>)