Queen's Speech: New energy policies must not distract from environmental priorities

Dr Jonathan Radcliffe

“The Queen’s Speech reflects a shift in energy policy emphasis from low carbon to energy security and economic growth. These don’t have to be mutually exclusive, but, according to the time horizon being considered, one set of policies can distract from the longer-term priorities.”

Read full opinion (/research/perspective/queens-speech-energy.aspx)