About

Phil Morgan is a Senior Lecturer in operations management at Oxford Brookes University, running undergraduate and postgraduate courses. His specialisms within operations are operations strategy and supply chain management. As a visiting lecturer, he has been the Module Leader for the Executive MBA Operations Management Module at Birmingham Business School since 1998.

Qualifications

BA (Hl) French with German, University of Leeds, 1975
Certificate of Teaching in Higher Education, Oxford Polytechnic, 1992
Professional Diploma, Chartered Institute of Purchasing and Supply, 1988

Biography

Phil acts as Level Verifier for the Graduate Diploma of the Chartered Institute of Purchasing and Supply. In recent years, Phil has developed core modules on business planning and start-up for postgraduate students, and leads the MBA Entrepreneurship Specialism at Grenoble Graduate Business School.

Before joining Oxford Brookes University in 1990, Phil had a successful career in procurement and commercial management, in industries as diverse as automotive, cable manufacturing and textiles. He has continued to provide consultancy and training services to many local businesses, particularly in the development of operations and procurement strategies, and with the implementation of ISO 9000.
