

Study here

Staff in the School of Cancer Sciences are engaged in cutting-edge research into all aspects of cancer, from understanding the cancer genome to multi-centre clinical trials of novel therapies. This is reflected in the courses we offer both undergraduates and postgraduates, which provide opportunities to learn about and become involved in exciting new developments in fields as diverse as cancer viruses, metabolomics, cancer cell signaling, tumour immunology and gene therapy.

Find out more about:

Undergraduate degree courses \(/schools/cancer/study-here/undergrad-degrees.aspx\)

Postgraduate taught degree and diploma courses \(/schools/cancer/study-here/postgraduate-taught.aspx\)

Research degrees \(PhD\)

\(/schools/cancer/study-here/postgrad-research-degrees.aspx\)

Courses for Continuing Professional Development \(/schools/cancer/study-here/CPD.aspx\)