

Civil Engineering at Birmingham obtains Athena SWAN bronze award

Posted on Monday 30th September 2013

The Athena SWAN Charter promotes and rewards good practice in the recruitment, retention and progression of women in Science, Technology, Engineering, Mathematics and Medicine (STEMM) subjects. The University of Birmingham obtained a Bronze Athena Swan Award in March 2012 and the School of Civil Engineering obtained its own Award in September 2013.

Find more about the principles of the Charter:

- Athena SWAN website \(http://www.athenaswan.org.uk/\)
- University of Birmingham Athena SWAN Charter \(/university/about/equality/athena-swan-charter.aspx\)

The Monitoring Team

The principles embodied in our Athena Swan commitment are owned by the whole of the School and monitored closely by a working group. The group is set up to monitor our progress towards our objectives and to implement new activities when appropriate. If you have a question or would like to get involved please contact one of the following

- Professor Miles Tight \(/staff/profiles/civil/tight-miles.aspx\) (Chairperson)
- Professor Mark Sterling \(/staff/profiles/civil/sterling-mark.aspx\) (Head of School)
- Dr Cynthia Carliell-Marquet \(/staff/profiles/civil/carliell-marquet-cynthia.aspx\)
- Dr Hassan Hemida \(/staff/profiles/civil/hemida-hassan.aspx\)
- Dr Sarah Jordan
- Professor Kamel Hawwash \(/staff/profiles/civil/hawwash-kamel.aspx\)
- TBA (student representative)

Privacy | Legal | Cookies and cookie policy | Accessibility | Site map | Website feedback | Charitable information

© University of Birmingham 2015

