

New applicants visit - Civil Engineering

Posted on Tuesday 13th November 2012

The School of Civil Engineering opened its doors to applicants from Welbeck Defence Sixth Form College this morning, offering them a glimpse into their future, should they choose to study here next year.

A tour of the buildings and laboratories included a discussion with Professor Sterling on the School's Wind Tunnel, before a hands-on demonstration exploring the forces at work on a cantilever bridge, with humans acting as the supports.

If you have applied to study at the University of Birmingham, be sure to book a place on a Visit Day \(/schools/civil-engineering/undergraduate/applicant-visit-days.aspx\) to experience some of what we have to offer, or if not, we have an Open Day \(/undergraduate/visit/ug-opendays.aspx\) on the 24th November that you may attend.
