

Filming Shakespeare webinar

Posted on Tuesday 27th November 2012

As part of the Shakespeare Birthplace Trust's 'Filming Shakespeare' event, a webinar on 'Shakespeare on Film' brought together colleagues from the Trust with Professor Russell Jackson (/staff/profiles/drama/jackson-russell.aspx) (DTA) and Professor Emeritus Stanley Wells. It attracted participants from as far afield as Hungary and Brazil, and can be viewed at <http://bloggingshakespeare.com/webinars/filming-shakespeare> (<http://bloggingshakespeare.com/webinars/filming-shakespeare>).

The webinar consists of a Power Point of screen shots from two films (Branagh's Henry V and Hamlet) with discussion by the participants in Stratford, and answers to questions sent in by email as the session progressed.

The webinar also includes a message from Sir Kenneth Branagh and information about a competition, sponsored by the Trust, that will be of interest to those with film-making ambitions.
