

Chinese lecture tour

Posted on Tuesday 29th November 2011

From 13-21 December 2011, Wolfgang Teubert will give invited lectures at the following universities in China

- Ludong University, Anyang
- Beihang University, Beijing
- Communications University of China, Beijing
- Henan Normal University, Xinxiang
- People's Liberation Army University, Luoyang

Speaking topics include

- 'Dialogue and Democracy'
- 'Things "happen to arise" - Darwin's natural selection: a story of success or failure?'
- Corpus linguistics applied to Critical Discourse Analysis: The case of the civilised world')

In November 2011, Wolfgang visited the University of Klagenfurt, giving an invited lecture: 'Things "happen to arise" in Darwin's natural selection: a story of success or failure?' and spoke at the University of Leicester with his invited lecture '孝(xiao) and filial piety: Translation equivalence and interpretive corpus linguistics'.