

AGMS graduate enjoys life as a golf professional in the UAE

Posted on Wednesday 9th May 2012

AGMS graduate Victoria Hasset, is one of a select few female golf professionals in the UAE. After graduating in 2011, she joined the Yas Links Golf Club in Abu Dhabi where she teaches golf and also organises tournaments and golf events. She is passionate about her chosen profession and after working six days a week she will often go out for a game of golf on the seventh day or go to watch a championship - she recently saw Tiger Woods playing just a few meters from her.

Victoria was the first female to graduate with a first class BA Honours degree in Applied Golf Management Studies and has successfully represented her country and the University of Birmingham in amateur tournaments.
