- by Lisa Evans
- adapted from the novel by Mrs Henry Wood
- directed by Gwenda Hughes

Beautiful, kind and unblemished, Lady Isabel Vane is the perfect wife and mother. Until, in a fit of jealousy, she leaves her neglectful husband and infant children to elope with her aristocratic suitor. Her fall from grace is absolute. Can she be redeemed? And will she ever see her children again?

Dramatic and moving, East Lynne draws aside the curtains of the respectable Victorian middle-classes to reveal their hypocrisy, cruelty and lust. And we witness the terrible punishment of those that dare to disobey a merciless moral code. Oberon Modern Plays.

About our productions

Each year we stage a season of plays closely tied to its academic and practical work. Productions are performed by third year undergraduates and supported in lighting, sound, costume and stage management by second and first year students. Plays are directed either by members of the Department or guest directors from the professional theatre. Productions will be staged in the newly refurbished George Cadbury Hall \(/schools/edacs/departments/drama/productions/george-cadbury-hall.aspx\).
