About

Julian Clark researches the political geographies of Europe, the governance of natural resources, and the interrelations between political geography and political science. He has written widely on political geography and environmental governance, and has research monographs published with Oxford University Press and Routledge.

Qualifications

- PhD in Human Geography (University College London)
- MSc, Natural Resources and Environmental Policy (University of London)
- BA (Hons.) Geography (St Catherine's College, University of Oxford; Peter Kirk Memorial Scholar)
- PG Cert. in Learning and Teaching in Higher Education, University of London

Biography

2011– Senior Lecturer in Geography School of Geography, Earth and Environmental Sciences, University of Birmingham.

2007 – 2010: Lecturer in Geography, School of Geography, Earth and Environmental Sciences, University of Birmingham.

2003 – 2007: Lecturer in Environmental Governance, Birkbeck College, University of London.

Teaching

Julian teaches on postgraduate and undergraduate modules focusing on political geography, environmental governance and the governance of natural resources. He is module leader on Social and Political Geography (2nd year), Environmental Governance (3rd year), Geopolitics and Globalization (Master's level), and is Dissertation Tutor and third year Tutor in GEES. His courses use a variety of learning and assessment methods reflecting the diversity of his teaching experience.

Postgraduate supervision

I welcome applications from prospective PhD students with broadly defined interests in political geography and political governance of natural resources. Current and recently completed doctoral research students include:

- Maurice Brennan (2012 -) (with E. Valsami-Jones, J Lead) Governing Nanotechnologies.
- Chutiwalanch Semmahasak (2009 -) (with D. Hannah) Adaptive governance and sustainable water management in NW Thailand.
- Indrani Mahapatra (2010 -) (with J Lead) Governance and regulation of second generation nanotechnologies
- Sen Du (2008-) (with J Thornes) Carbon finance, weather derivatives, emission trading and auditing: an energy trading framework.
- Jacob Salder (2011-) (with J Bryson) Another 'New' Regionalism? Landscapes of Economic Governance in the Coalition Era
- Megan Ronanye (2011-) (with J Bryson) Regional economic resilience and the governance of design in manufacturing sectors of the West Midlands
- Cal Buffery (2011-) (with J Bryson) Severnscapes: legal and geographical understandings of water resources

Research

I am a political geographer with research interests in state spatialities (how states materialize and exercise power over territory); the discourses and practices of state representation (through geographies and performances of diplomacy); Europeanization and the geographies of European integration; governance and the formal and informal rules that structure the public policy realm; the governance of natural resources, especially water; and how 'nature' is defined and politically constructed and contested through governance arrangements.

Ongoing and recent research has been funded from the following sources:

2014-2017 Co-I NERC-ESRC MOUNTAIN-EVO (Adaptive governance of mountain ecosystem services for poverty alleviation enabled by environmental virtual observatories) ESPA £1.8m (Bham £300,000)
