

IDD staff attended the International Studies Association Conference, San Francisco, 3-6 April 2013

Posted on Thursday 9th May 2013

Four members of IDD staff were at the International Studies Association Conference, San Francisco, 3-6 April 2013

(<http://www.isanet.org/Conferences/SanFrancisco2013.aspx> (<http://www.isanet.org/Conferences/SanFrancisco2013.aspx>)).

Heather Marquette (<http://www.birmingham.ac.uk/schools/government-society/staff/profiles.aspx?Referenceld=4495>) and Jonathan Fisher (<http://www.birmingham.ac.uk/schools/government-society/staff/profiles.aspx?Referenceld=30965>) organised a panel called 'Politicising or Depoliticising Aid? The Political Economy of Political Economy Analysis', and presented a joint paper on 'Donors Doing Political Economy Analysis™: From Process to Product (and back again?)'.

Claire Mcloughlin (<http://www.birmingham.ac.uk/schools/government-society/staff/profiles.aspx?Referenceld=21102>) gave a paper on '(Re-) building State Legitimacy via Service Delivery: Beyond Institutional Approaches'.

Nicolas Lemay-Hebert (<http://www.birmingham.ac.uk/schools/government-society/staff/profiles.aspx?Referenceld=21582>) gave a paper on 'The Unfulfilled Potential of the Light Footprint Approach for Peace Missions'.