03-05 March and 23, 24 April 2015

This Executive Programme in Strategic Commissioning focuses directly on the current challenge of coping with public service funding cuts at a time of rising service needs and expectations and considers issues such as:

- Structures and models for strategic commissioning
- Shaping more successful communities and improved outcomes
- Integration across all public services
- Monitoring and evaluating of outcomes
- Driving organisational and partnership performance
- Improving procurement
- Making the most of alternative methods of service delivery
- Harnessing user and community co-production

Accreditation

Delegates can, if they wish, register towards a postgraduate certificate accreditation (20 credits) and complete two assignments.

Who should attend?

The programme is designed for all those involved in commissioning and procurement of services from public, private and third sectors, including Local Authorities, Health and Wellbeing Boards, NHS agencies (e.g. CCGs), Local Partnerships, LSPs, and service providers in the private and the voluntary sectors. The programme is designed to be relevant both to those who already have commissioning experience but also to those who are coming new to commissioning from other public service backgrounds.

The course will be very interactive, encouraging all participants to share their experiences and explore together alternative approaches.

Who will deliver the course?

The programme is delivered by INLOGOV tutors who are leaders in the national field of strategic commissioning and public management. INLOGOV's work – research, action learning, executive development and postgraduate programmes – seeks to enhance practice through academic insight, helping local public services improve outcomes and efficiency.

Programme overview

The course explores the following themes (may be subject to alteration):

Day 1

- Introduction – Agenda setting
- Strategic Commissioning: The commissioning cycle
- Key Activities of the Commissioner
- A practical exploration of the commissioning cycle

Day 2

- Commissioning: New models and conceptual perspectives
- User and community co-production of public services

Day 3

- Moving to outcome-based commissioning and procurement
- Measuring outcomes, outputs and quality of service
- Mapping outcomes and pathways

Day 4

- The underpinnings to commissioning and de-commissioning services

- Using models of competitive advantage to enhance commissioner influence on providers
- De-commissioning public services
- Commissioning for service resilience in the face of financial constraints

Day 5

- Leading and managing strategic commissioning: Staff, organisations, partnerships, networks, skills and competencies
- Managing workforce changes in response to economic retrenchment

Can I use this course as part of my CPD or to access other postgraduate study?

You might wish to consider incorporating it into your Continuing Professional Development (CPD) or to make it the start of a fuller postgraduate programme (which you could develop into a Postgraduate Certificate, Diploma or Masters degree (</schools/government-society/departments/local-government-studies/courses/masters.aspx>)). If you are interested in using the course in these ways, please contact Sarah Smith s.e.smith.2@bham.ac.uk (<mailto:s.e.smith.2@bham.ac.uk>) to discuss the opportunities available.

Course convenors

Ian Briggs (</schools/government-society/departments/local-government-studies/staff/profiles/briggs-ian.aspx>) is currently the co-director of the MSc in Strategic Commissioning. His special interests and research are in the areas of how people and organisations respond to change and how this impacts upon the leadership role of staff.

Professor Tony Bovaird (</schools/government-society/departments/local-government-studies/staff/profiles/bovaird-tony.aspx>) is a specialist in strategic management and performance assessment in public services. He has published widely on partnership, commissioning and is a member of the National Audit Office Local Government Reference Office.

The Module will also draw on the skills and experience of other members of INLOGOV staff as appropriate.

Fees and booking

£975 plus £300 for optional postgraduate accreditation.
