Chairing Scrutiny is different from chairing traditional service committees - putting even experienced service chairs at a disadvantage. The seminar will explore the skills required to support good scrutiny and the special demands it makes on those who take the chair.

In the past this workshop has opened the eyes of many scrutiny chairs to the potential of scrutiny and to what chairing involves. Vice-Chairs and Officers who support scrutiny are also welcome.

The workshop will explore the skills and techniques needed to chair overview and scrutiny committees or short-life working groups.

The seminar will consider:

- how to prepare for scrutiny committees or short-life task and finish groups
- the relationships between scrutiny chairs and scrutiny officers
- how to choose a small number of topics for scrutiny investigations
- how to plan and develop questions
- how to get what you want from those who come to answer questions
- innovative ways of collecting evidence
- how to make recommendations effective
- the nature of scrutiny leadership
- the party political dimension

Aims

- To explore the skills of chairing scrutiny
- To look at how style and approach is influenced by the chairman
- To link chairing styles to scrutiny topics
- To practice chairing skills
