

Journals in the department

Our research strategy has been effective in raising the international profile of our published research output, with POLSIS staff contributing to leading journals in the discipline and with review articles, review symposia and debate pieces frequently prompted by the published work of members of the Department.

Individual and collaborative research has furthermore produced or contributed significantly towards a number of single-authored, multi-authored, edited and co-edited research monographs and textbooks.

View all the journals in the School \(/schools/government-society/research/publications/journals/index.aspx\)

British Politics Journal \(/schools/government-society/departments/political-science-international-studies/research/publications/journals/british-politics.aspx\)

British Politics is a new journal from Palgrave Macmillan, incorporating a range of research papers and review articles from all theoretical perspectives, and on all aspects of British politics.

Civil Wars Journal \(/schools/government-society/departments/political-science-international-studies/research/publications/journals/civil-wars.aspx\)

Civil Wars will be required reading for students and scholars of armed conflict and international relations, and, given its policy relevance, will be of interest to those in government, international organisations and the military.

Comparative European Politics \(/schools/government-society/departments/political-science-international-studies/research/publications/journals/comparative-european-politics.aspx\)

Comparative European Politics is an international forum for research, theory and debate on the comparative politics and political economy of contemporary Europe.

European Journal of Political Theory \(/schools/government-society/departments/political-science-international-studies/research/publications/journals/european-journal-political-theory.aspx\)

The European Journal of Political Theory publishes articles in political philosophy, political theory and the history of ideas. All articles are subject to peer-review by internationally renowned scholars in order to ensure the highest quality.

West European Politics \(/schools/government-society/departments/political-science-international-studies/research/publications/journals/west-european-politics.aspx\)

West European Politics (WEP) has established itself as one of the most authoritative journals covering political and social issues in Western Europe. It has a substantial reviews section and coverage of all national elections in Western Europe.

For more publications throughout the department please see our individual staff profiles \(/schools/government-society/departments/political-science-international-studies/staff/index.aspx\)