

Alumni

The School of Government and Society is proud of all of its students and alumni. Via the University's Development and Alumni Office, we hope to keep in touch with all of our alumni post-graduation, to learn of their many successes and to continue to share our research successes and campus developments.

The Birmingham Magazine, Alumni Newsletter and monthly email newsletter help to keep our alumni up to date with all of the latest University and alumni news while our wide-ranging alumni events programme will provide opportunities to catch up with old friends or make new professional contacts.

your.bham (<https://bhamalumni.org/NetCommunity/Page.aspx?pid=192&srcid=-2>), our online alumni community, is another great way to keep in touch with the University and fellow classmates. On the site, alumni can contact friends, upload their latest news, view and post job opportunities and sign up for a Birmingham email forwarding address. They can also learn more about our exclusive benefits including support and advice, a wide range of discounts and membership of our many alumni groups. Registration is available via the alumni section (<http://www.birmingham.ac.uk/alumni/index.aspx>).

Faces and memories from CREES's 50 years

The year 2013 marked the 50th anniversary of the Centre for Russian and East European Studies (CREES). To mark this milestone we held a series of special seminars and an expanded annual conference. See our 50 faces of distinguished individuals (</schools/government-society/departments/russian-east-european-studies/50-anniversary/index.aspx>) who have contributed to CREES's past and present.

Highlighted alumni profiles

Dr John Tedstrom, PhD Russian and East European Studies (1994) (</schools/government-society/departments/russian-east-european-studies/alumni/profiles/tedstrom-john.aspx>)

"I learned to appreciate the larger context of the experience we're all having - it's one thing to have experts in particular subjects and another to share that experience in a useful way."
