

Undergraduate degrees

Russian Studies

Studying Russian at Birmingham gives you the potential to achieve a very high standard of fluency in spoken and written Russian. The critical thinking skills gained by studying language alongside literary, political, social and cultural courses means Russian students are highly sought after in graduate employment generally. Russia has a rapidly growing economy and is home to over 140 million people, making it the most populous European nation. Russia's Soviet-era links mean over 280 million people use the Russian language in Europe and Asia.
