Posted on Monday 18th February 2013

On behalf of the School of History and Cultures and the History and Cultures Workshop \(http://hcworkshop.net\) (HCW), Dr William Purkis \(/staff/profiles/history/purkis-william.aspx\) has made a successful application to the Royal Historical Society's Postgraduate Speakers scheme \(http://www.royalhistoricalsociety.org\).

The scheme enables some of the Society's grant-funded scholars to gain experience in presenting research papers and is designed to disseminate the research findings and further advance the scholarly progression of early-career historians whose promise has already been recognised. Dr Purkis and the HCW seminar conveners are now in the process of inviting three RHS-funded speakers to present papers at the HCW seminar series in 2013. Further details of the seminar programme will be announced in due course.
