

Research in History and Cultures

Research activities in the School of History and Cultures are very diverse.

Historically, we span the period from the 8th and 9th centuries to the present. Geographically, we take in a spread from China, India, and the Middle East, to the Americas; and of course we have a centre of excellence on research in African issues.

Europe, and in particular Britain, also feature very strongly in our research focus. For specific details on these themes and for details of our research please see departmental pages or staff profiles.

- research in African Studies and Anthropology \(/schools/historycultures/departments/dasa/research/index.aspx\)
- research in Classics, Ancient History and Archaeology \(/schools/historycultures/departments/caha/research/classics-research.aspx\)
- research in History \(/schools/historycultures/departments/history/research/index.aspx\)
- research in Cultural Heritage \(/schools/historycultures/departments/ironbridge/research/index.aspx\)