

Research in German Studies

Our research ranges from the medieval to the contemporary period, and is characterized by a strong commitment to understanding cultural products in their social, ideological and historical contexts.

Postgraduate students, as well as receiving expert tuition from specialists in their field, benefit from the seminar series and round table discussions. These include research seminars with invited outside speakers, symposia on broad interdisciplinary topics, and student-organised postgraduate conferences.

- Our research culture \(/schools/lcahm/departments/german/research/culture.aspx\)
- Research showcase \(/schools/lcahm/departments/german/research/showcase.aspx\)
- Postgraduate research \(/schools/lcahm/departments/german/research/abstracts/index.aspx\)
- Research seminars \(/schools/lcahm/departments/german/research/seminars.aspx\)
- The Sternberger Project \(/schools/lcahm/departments/german/research/sternberger.aspx\)