As part of our BA Modern Languages, you can study Spanish on its own, or alongside one or two other languages. You can also study Spanish with another subject as part of a wide range of degree combinations. We welcome both beginners and advanced students.

You can follow modules which deal with history, linguistics and visual arts and/or opt for more specialised courses, such as Introduction to the Spanish Caribbean, Literature and Violence in Peru or Barcelona: Urban Space and Cultural Identity. You can also study Portuguese \(/schools/lcahm/departments/portuguese/index.aspx\), Catalan \(/schools/lcahm/departments/hispanic/about/catalan/index.aspx\), Galician \(/schools/lcahm/departments/hispanic/about/galician/index.aspx\) and Basque \(/schools/lcahm/departments/hispanic/about/basque/index.aspx\) as part of our programmes, beginning in your first or second year and with the option of continuing with them through your year abroad into final year. These are not available on their own, but can be taken post A level and as a beginner as part of the BA Modern Languages programme alongside another language.
