PhD Italian Studies (</postgraduate/courses/research/lang/italian-studies.aspx>)

I am in the third year of a PhD in Italian Studies. I completed my undergraduate degree in Combined Languages at the University of Hull, before completing the joint Warwick-Birmingham MA in Italian Studies: Culture and Communication. My MA dissertation focused on comic representations of Berlusconi in Nanni Moretti's Il caimano and Dario Fo's L'anomalo bicefalo.

Research

My thesis examines the work of Italian political and satirical comedians since the start of Berlusconi's second government in 2001, focusing on their use of performance spaces and their position within the cultural opposition to Berlusconi's centre-right governments. The project draws on humour, media and performance studies to assess the comic strategies employed on television, stage, film and the internet, and at protest events.

My research has been funded by a University of Birmingham Humanities Research Scholarship. I was awarded the 2010 Graduate Student Award by the International Society for Humor Studies (<http://www.hnu.edu/ishs/ConferCenter.htm>).
