

Cadbury lectures 2011

Parables for the City

Bishop David Urquhart - Anglican Bishop of Birmingham

Archbishop Bernard Longley - Roman Catholic Archbishop of Birmingham

The Cadbury Lectures are annual and prestigious public lectures. The lectures usually last an hour followed by discussion. David Urquhart and Bernard Longley, the Anglican and Roman Catholic bishops of Birmingham, jointly gave five lectures on the theme of Parables for the City. The Chancellor and Vice Chancellor will opened and chaired the lectures.

Listen to the lectures

Family and the City: Parables of Jesus in 21st Century Birmingham

Bishop David and Archbishop Bernard in dialogue

Listen to the podcast \(/Audio/college-arts-law/ptr/cadburymonday.mp3\)

'Soul, you have ample goods' - The Parable of the Barns and Consumption

Bishop David

Listen to the podcast \(/Audio/college-arts-law/ptr/cadburytuesday.mp3\)

'It was only right that we should celebrate and rejoice.' - The Parable of the Prodigal Son and Family Values

Archbishop Bernard

No recording available

'Some seed fell into rich soil and grew and produced its crop.' - The Parable of the Sower and the Purpose of Education

Archbishop Bernard

Listen to the podcast \(/Audio/college-arts-law/ptr/cadburythursday.mp3\)

'Each according to his ability' - The Parable of the Talents and Creativity

Bishop David

Listen to the podcast \(/Audio/college-arts-law/ptr/cadburyfriday.mp3\)