

News

Latest news

Blog: A literature review on 21st Century Public Servants \(http://21stcenturypublicservant.wordpress.com/2014/05/23/a-literature-review-on-21st-century-public-servants/\)

Hero leaders aren't the answer: one of 8 key themes in the literature review from our 21st Century Public Servant project, which highlights the extent to which public services will require a different set of workforce roles than in the past.

Friday 23rd May 2014

The 21st Century Public Servant \(/schools/public-service-academy/news/2014/21st-century-public-servant.aspx\)

In November 2012 an invited audience of senior public servants and academics joined a round table discussion of the role of public servants and public service in the 21st century.

Thursday 15th May 2014

The 21st Century Public Servant \(/schools/public-service-academy/news/2012/21st-century-public-servant.aspx\)

In November 2012 an invited audience of senior public servants and academics joined a round table discussion of the role of public servants and public service in the 21st century.

Tuesday 27th November 2012

Other related news

There are no results that match your criteria.

Discussion papers

The Twenty-first century public servant: developing our response

The nature of public services is changing and this has significant implications for those who work in them. The localism agenda and the devolution of power promise to dramatically alter systems of public services. Added to this, the increased involvement of private and third sector providers in the delivery of public services means that we are seeing a radical programme of public service reform. Taken together these changes could mean a significant shift in terms of what public servants do, where they do it, what skills they may need and what their career trajectories might look like... Read more \(/schools/public-service-academy/themes/twentyfirst-century-public-servant.aspx\)