Biography

Currently seconded to the Centre for Adolescent Health at the Murdoch Children's Research Institute, Melbourne, Nathan is undertaking a programme of research concerned with the application of neuroscience to law and social policy. In particular, Nathan's research considers the explanations apparent in emerging understandings of neuromaturation of patterns of offending amongst young adults and those with neurodevelopmental difficulties, and explores the implications of these emerging understandings for policy and practice within the criminal justice system.

Nathan is also the Coordinator of the international research exchange programme, 'Understanding and supporting families with complex needs' (/research/activity/social-policy/families-policy-practice/research/supporting-families.aspx), seeking to explore family-focused policies and practices across social care, education and health. Participant universities include: University of Birmingham (<http://www.birmingham.ac.uk/index.aspx>) (as lead partner); Università Cattolica del Sacro Cuore (<http://milano.unicatt.it/index.html?rdeLocaleAttr=it>) (Italy); Bodo University College (<http://www.hibo.no/>) (Norway); Umeå University (<http://www.umu.se/>) (Sweden); Universidad Nacional de Córdoba (<http://www.unc.edu.ar/>) (Argentina); Universidad Católica de Chile (<http://www.uc.cl/>) (Chile); Universidad Autónoma de Nuevo León (<http://www.uanl.mx/>) (Mexico); and the University of Nottingham (<http://www.nottingham.ac.uk/sociology/index.aspx>) (UK)
