

HSMC's views sought on coalition health plans

Posted on Wednesday 26th May 2010

Government plans to provide a stronger local voice for people through directly elected individuals sitting on the boards of Primary Care Trusts (PCTs) were under the spotlight on last Sunday's edition of BBC One's The Politics Show (South West). The University was asked to field an academic to comment on the proposals, leading to the HSMC television debut of Robin Miller, one of the department's newly appointed Senior Fellows.
