Posted on Friday 4th February 2011

A team of researchers from HSMC and the Third Sector Research Centre (TSRC), (<http://www.tsrc.ac.uk>) commissioned to evaluate the Department of Health's (DH) £100 million Social Enterprise Investment Fund (SEIF), has recently published its report on the first phase of its evaluation.

The SEIF provides start-up funding and long term investment for organisations and the evaluation aims to assess its effectiveness in supporting Social Enterprise and its subsequent impact on the realisation of social benefits.
