

Priority setting seminar Down Under

Posted on Friday 14th October 2011

'We're all in this together?' David Cameron Prime Minister, UK
Engaging health care professionals in priority setting and rationing: the UK experience

HSMC's Dr Suzanne Robinson will be presenting a seminar as part of the Australian Institute of Health Innovation (AIHI) Seminar Series at the University of New South Wales in Sydney, Australia at the end of this month. At this seminar, chaired by Professor Jeffrey Braithwaite \(/schools/social-policy/departments/health-services-management-centre/staff/braithwaite-jeffrey.aspx\), Suzanne will talk about the findings from the recent study by researchers at the University of Birmingham's Health Management Centre and the Nuffield Trust, which undertook to empirically explore how different strategies and approaches are enacted, in terms of their deployment within decision-making processes in PCTs.
