

HSMC attend EHMA 2013

Posted on Wednesday 10th July 2013

Ross Millar, Tracey Gray and Iain Snelling attend the European Health Management Association (EHMA) conference in Milan

Ross, Tracey and Iain were flying the flag for the Health Services Management Centre (HSMC) in preparation for the conference coming to Birmingham next year.

The 2014 conference 'from Bedside to Boardroom' aims to explore the current issues related to leadership of healthcare from a variety of European perspectives. It will encourage contributions from academics, practitioners and policy makers. For anyone interested in attending EHMA 2014 please feel free to contact Ross, r.millar@bham.ac.uk (<mailto:r.millar@bham.ac.uk>) or Tracey, t.gray@bham.ac.uk. (<mailto:t.gray@bham.ac.uk>)

Iain also presented a research paper at this year's conference studying the role of medical leadership in the NHS, based on the recent report he contributed to with Chris Ham, Helen Dickinson, and Peter Spurgeon, For further information about Iain's research please see <http://www.netscc.ac.uk/hsdr/projdetails.php?ref=08-1808-236> (<http://www.netscc.ac.uk/hsdr/projdetails.php?ref=08-1808-236>) or contact him on i.n.snelling@bham.ac.uk (<mailto:i.n.snelling@bham.ac.uk>).
