Postgraduate supervision

Harriet is Director of Doctoral Research in the School of Social Policy and supervises PhD students within IASS. Themes within currently supervised work include:

- Adult social care
- Supporting paid carers
- Whole family approaches in policy and practice

Research

Whole Family Approaches in Policy and Practice

Harriet is particularly interested in the ways in which policy makers in Adults' services and Children's services seek to develop strategies and approaches which attempt to bridge 'the gap' which individuals and families can experience when seeking support.

Individual and Family Experiences of Disability

Much of Harriet's research is focused on lived experiences of disability and impairment (including mental distress) and on individual and family experiences of social care and health services.

Research Funding Awards
