About

Traci Dix-Williams is the Director of Operations at the Ironbridge Gorge Museum Trust and has over 25 years of experience fulfilling various roles throughout the Trust. She brings to the Institute experience in curating social history, including research and interpretation, managing and redeveloping museums, as well as co-ordinating the day to day management of a multi-site museum. Traci's practical experiences in these areas are a valuable supplement to the academic and intellectual vigour of the Institute.
