

Planning Office

"The Planning Office supports decision-making across the University by providing data, information, analysis, and strategic guidance. We work in partnership with all areas of the University."

Olivia Kew-Fickus, Director of Strategic Planning,
Planning Office

The Planning Office is responsible for leading and coordinating strategic, operational and academic planning across the University. We do this by providing a range of information, support and advice, including provision of business intelligence; monitoring and assessing the institution's performance; and coordinating the planning process.

We collate, analyse, organise and publish a wide range of management information to meet internal and external reporting requirements, ensuring that the information produced is nuanced to provide intelligence which reflects the external policy environment and supports internal needs. We also have primary responsibility for the development and implementation of key performance indicators.
