

Carer and family spillovers in economic evaluation

ONE DAY WORKSHOP

Workshop overview

It is increasingly recognised that costs and outcomes falling on carers and others close to the patient should be considered in economic evaluation. This workshop will cover a range of techniques that have been developed and applied over the last 20 years. The day will comprise lectures and practical sessions, and an opportunity for participants to discuss their research challenges with the workshop leaders.

Workshop leaders:

Hareth Al-Janabi, Senior Lecturer in Health Economics, University of Birmingham

Werner Brouwer, Professor of Health Economics, Erasmus University, Rotterdam

Time and location: September 19th 2019, University of Birmingham

Funding: NIHR career development fellowship “Techniques to include carer quality of life in economic evaluation”

Workshop content

Morning session

- Perspectives and theory
- Measuring and valuing outcomes
- Costing informal care
- Questionnaires and instruments

Afternoon session

- Presenting the economic evaluation
- Contexts (e.g. HTA, public health, social care) and research challenges
- Practical exercise
- Research clinic

Please contact Hareth Al-Janabi (h.aljanabi@bham.ac.uk) to register and/or ask any questions about the workshop.