YOUR POSTGRADUATE
CAMPUS TOUR GUIDE

Welcome

Welcome to the University of Birmingham. This guide has been produced to provide information about the University and its facilities for prospective postgraduate students who wish to conduct their own 'self-guided' tour around the University campus. A map of the campus is provided on the inside back cover and the following pages provide information about the sights you will see on your tour.

The University

The University of Birmingham has a long history of academic excellence and innovation. We were the first civic university, where students from all religions and backgrounds were accepted on an equal basis. Our spirit of innovation continues today with groundbreaking research in areas ranging from cancer studies to gravitational waves. Our students receive a first-class academic experience with us during their studies, as well as becoming equipped for life beyond university.

Today you will see some of the attractions of our campus, and you may also decide to visit the city centre of which we are rightly proud. The city offers great social and recreational opportunities for students. The University, with its own campus railway station, is only two stops and eight minutes from the city centre. Birmingham has an illustrious history of industry and invention, and continues to attract significant business investment today. The city centre has had over £9 billion spent on regeneration over the past few years and is home to the Bullring, one of Europe's largest shopping centres. The attraction of the city is such that around 40% of our graduates choose to stay in Birmingham after they have completed their studies.

Our postgraduate community of over 13,000 students is composed of representatives from all over the world. We are also a founder member of Universitas 21, a network of research-intensive universities conducting research projects around the world.

We hope you have an enjoyable day here at the University of Birmingham and that you benefit from your campus tour. Information about our postgraduate open days and other events can be found on our website.

Campus tour: an introduction

The University is a safe, friendly environment with an impressive mixture of sculptures, striking Victorian and modern buildings, and a range of facilities for students, staff and visitors. Lawns, mature trees and pedestrian walkways contribute to a peaceful atmosphere where students can study outside in groups or enjoy refreshments from the cafés around the campus.

We suggest you start the tour at the Aston Webb Building. We have provided information on the following pages about some of the highlights of our campus with each description matching the building numbers shown on the map on the inside back cover. The tour will take you around the campus in a circular direction terminating at University railway station.

As you walk through the campus, you will notice various sculptures which form part of our Sculpture Trail, running from the East Gate, where you can see the 1722 statue of King George I by Van Nost, through to the West Gate, where Sir Eduardo Paolozzi's Faraday stands. You can also see Ancestor I by Barbara Hepworth in University Square and William Bloye's Mermaid in the Guild courtyard.

1 The start of your tour: the Aston Webb Building (R6) and the clock tower

Built in 1900, the iconic red brick Aston Webb Building was one of the first buildings on this site and was opened in 1909 by King Edward VII and Queen Alexandra. It was designed by Sir Aston Webb who also designed the Imperial College of Science, the eastern façade of Buckingham Palace, Admiralty Arch on the Mall and the Cromwell Road frontage of the Victoria and Albert Museum in London. The Aston Webb Building was used as a hospital in the First World War and the plaques in the foyer commemorate University members who lost their lives during that war. Behind Reception is the Great Hall. The stained glass windows in the Great Hall represent the various academic disciplines taught at the University.

The Aston Webb Building is the start and end of the University experience for students as this is where registration and graduation are held. The University's finance offices are located in this building, as well as the office of the Vice-Chancellor and one academic department, Earth Sciences. If you take the corridor on your right as you face the Great Hall, you will find the Lapworth Museum of Geology, one of the UK's most outstanding geological collections, with state-of-the-art galleries and a range of innovative and interactive exhibits. If you take the corridor on your left you will be able to see the Student Hub, which brings all of our student support services together in one place including Careers Network, Student Funding, Counselling, Wellbeing, Disability, Mental Health and Learning Support.

Outside the Aston Webb Building situated in Chancellor's Court is the clock tower. This is one of the tallest buildings in Birmingham and nicknamed 'Old Joe' after Joseph Chamberlain, our first Chancellor. The tower is just under 100 metres high – the tallest freestanding clock tower in Europe – and is based on the Mangia Tower in Siena, Italy. It is said the tower was the inspiration for J R R Tolkien's 'all seeing eye' in the Lord of the Rings series. The largest bell weighs six tons and superstition says if you walk under the tower when the clock chimes, you will fail your degree!

Looking across Chancellor's Court, you see the red brick Law Building (R1) and the architecturally distinctive Muirhead Tower (R21) rising up behind it. Following the Aston Webb Building round to your right, you will arrive at the Bramall Music Building (R12).

2 The Bramall (R12)

One hundred years after the Aston Webb Building opened, the Bramall was constructed and opened in 2012 to finally complete Joseph Chamberlain's original architectural vision to create a semi-circle of red brick buildings. It is the home of our outstanding Department of Music with state-of-the-art teaching, research, performance and rehearsal facilities appropriate to its reputation. This facility benefits everyone involved in both the University's elite and inclusive music-making and performance as well as being open for use by communities across the region.

The 450-seat auditorium is the most flexible performance space at a UK university – suitable for performances from solo voice and early music, to a full symphony orchestra. When not used for music, it is a high-profile location for drama and dance performance, and for prestigious lectures. Take the steps at the side of the Bramall down towards Ring Road South. Cross over the Ring Road and you will see University of Birmingham Sport & Fitness. Alternatively to avoid the steps, walk towards University Road East and turn right at the end of this road onto the Ring Road.

Sport & Fitness (O7)

Sport & Fitness is the University of Birmingham's state-of-the-art, £55 million sports development. The facility is home to Birmingham's only 50-metre length swimming pool, a gym with over 200 stations and a climbing wall, as well as an arena sports hall and six glass-backed squash courts. Birmingham has a proud inclusive sporting history. We have students who compete for the University at the top end of the British Universities and Colleges Sport (BUCS) league and nationally and internationally while also providing sporting opportunities for complete beginners to take up new sports and to play casually and keep fit. We offer a range of scholarships and bursaries to support the most talented athletes financially, physically and mentally, in addition to providing access to a High Performance Centre. Students can choose from a range of Sport & Fitness membership packages as well as a flexible exercise class programme.

Adjacent to Sport & Fitness, you can see the Bournbrook sports pitches. Many of our competitive sports teams train and play fixtures here, but they can also be booked by students for recreational sport. Walk along the Ring Road towards East Gate, and you will find the Guild of Students (O2).

4 The Guild of Students (O1)

The Guild of Students is the students' union, run by students for students. It represents and involves all students, undergraduate and postgraduate, home and international, across the University. It provides services such as Job Skills and Volunteering, which helps students to find volunteering opportunities and part-time jobs locally during term-time and vacation work, and Worklink, which helps students find temporary jobs on campus. The Guild Advice Service offers impartial and confidential advice, information and representation on a range of issues. The Guild also supports the student-led clubs and societies, covering diverse interests and activities such as ballroom dancing, the 'Buddy a Granny' volunteer group and the Purple Mermaid Circus Skills Society. In addition, The Guild manages the student-run campus TV and radio station and Redbrick, the student newspaper.

The Guild also organises large-scale annual social events such as Welcome Week to help new students settle in, Vale Fireworks in November and the Postgraduate Ball, in addition to weekly club nights and sports nights.

The University's multi-faith chaplaincy St Francis Hall (O2), is located next to the Guild.

Winterbourne House and Garden (G12) can be found further down the main road (walking along Edgbaston Park Road with King Edward's School on your right). This unique heritage attraction is set within seven acres of beautiful and tranquil botanic gardens with over 6,000 plant species from around the world. There is an admission charge. Alternatively, you could visit the Barber Institute of Fine Arts (R14) just over the road from the Guild. Admission is free of charge and it is one of the world's finest small art galleries, containing works from the 13th to the 20th centuries. The Barber Institute also hosts music events and lectures and family events throughout the year.

On leaving the Guild, head back towards the main campus, by following the road towards University Square. This route will take you past the Barber Institute on your right-hand side, later passing between the School of Mathematics in the Watson Building (R15) on your right and the Physics Department in the Poynting Building (R13) on your left.

5 Library (R30)

As you cross University Square, you will see the striking gold building that is the Main Library. This £50 million building opened in 2016 and is one of six libraries across the campus and region, with others based in departments such as the Barnes Library in the Medical School, or off campus such as at the Shakespeare Institute in Stratford. The Main Library facility is open 24/7 during term time and offers robust Wi-Fi and a power point at every desk.

There are more than 2 million books in the Main Library, as well as half a million electronic books and 50,000 electronic journals. Specialist subject advisers provide advice to students on finding and making effective use of the information and resources. The Academic Skills Centre located in the Library offers support to students with mathematics and statistics, academic writing and other general academic skills.

The area around the Library and the University Square has undergone considerable change. It has been transformed into a 'Great Heart', restoring the campus to its original design by Sir Aston Webb at the start of the 20th century with a large green open space. From here you can see across to the Arts Building (R16) and can again see the Muirhead Tower (R21) rising above campus. Next to the library you can find University Centre (R23).

6 University Centre (R23)

University Centre houses a bank, shops, a supermarket, hair salon and an optician. There are also places to eat and drink (all serving Fairtrade beverages) within the centre, as well as somewhere to get your phone fixed and stock up on stationery.

Living, the University's accommodation service, is also located in University Centre. They allocate University accommodation to students and can provide information about local private sector landlords, and can also help with checking rental contracts. If you have any questions about accommodation at Birmingham, this is the best place to visit to get information about the different types of accommodation available, costs and how to apply.

On leaving University Centre, turn right and walk towards the Ring Road. To your left is the Psychology department (R2) and on the opposite side of the road is the Geography department (R26). Walk towards the Murray Learning Centre (R28).

7 Murray Learning Centre (R28)

Murray Learning Centre has facilities to help students with independent study plus computer clusters, printers and scanners. From here you can see the University railway station from which there are regular services into the city centre (Birmingham New Street station), a journey of approximately eight minutes. From here there is access to the rest of the country and the journey to London is around one and a half hours. You can also see the Medical School (B1), which is across the main road from University station. The Medical School is a major international centre for education and research in medicine and medical sciences.

Your tour ends at this point, but if you wish to view an example of our student accommodation, the Vale Village residences are about a 15-minute walk from the main campus. To walk to the Vale, head to East Gate, and walk along Edgbaston Park Road in a northerly direction (the top-right hand corner of the map). You will come to 'The Vale' on your left, where some of our student residences are located in landscaped parkland overlooking a lake. To view an example of standard student accommodation, you can visit the show flat in Shackleton Hall. The key to the show flat can be obtained from reception at Shackleton. You will be asked to sign this out and return it to reception when you have finished. Shackleton also contains numerous social facilities for the students living on this site including a dining hall (Infusion), a coffee shop (The Melt) and a bar (Duck and Scholar).

We offer dedicated postgraduate studios and apartments in both the Pritchatts Park and Vale villages, as well as a range of en-suite and shared bathroom residences across a number of locations.

It is important to note that students who currently live in the UK are not guaranteed a room in our postgraduate accommodation although you can still apply. The Postgraduate Guarantee Scheme guarantees a place in university or partner accommodation to all first year postgraduate international and non-UK students providing you have applied before 31 July 2019. You can find out more information about this on our website.

Accommodation for students with disabilities

For students with disabilities, specially adapted rooms in halls of residence are available. Contact our Living team for more information on 0121 414 8000.

Living at home

For students that choose not to move into University accommodation, living at home and commuting to University is a good option especially for students who live locally. It doesn't mean the student experience should be any different from that of students living in halls of residence. All students have access to the same academic, social and sporting facilities.

Private accommodation

For students who wish to live in private accommodation during their postgraduate degree, we provide a range of help and support. Living has produced a House Hunting Guide and provides online search engines of available properties. The landlords of the properties advertised on these sites are accredited by the Midlands Landlord Accreditation Scheme to ensure standards of provision and maintenance are met.

Events and activities at the University of Birmingham

The University has a great number of activities that occur on campus, many of which are open to the general public or students and parents interested in looking at the University. The major events for prospective students are the annual postgraduate open days which take place in November and March. Details of these and our other events can be found on our website at birmingham.ac.uk/pgvisit

We also hold regular online chat events, where you can ask academics and members of staff questions about factors such as funding, accommodation, and course content. You can also ask our current students questions via our 'Ask Us' platform, and read about the postgraduate student experience in their blog entries.
