'I felt that there was still much more I wanted to learn about my subject and also certain things I wished to explore in a more in-depth manner. A Taught postgraduate course seemed to allow the perfect opportunity to do this. Alongside this, I am hoping to complete a PhD in the future and thus felt an MA would allow me opportunity to test how suited I feel to postgraduate study and whether I should continue to pursue this route.'

The best thing about the course for me is its incredibly varied content. I was spoilt for choice when it came to choosing which modules to take and excited by elements of all of them. I decided to undertake postgraduate study to really enhance my knowledge of a wide range of religious traditions and approaches to the study of religion and have been able to do this with ease. Additionally, my lecturers have all been engaging and supportive throughout my studies, offering invaluable advice when it has been needed the most.'
